Day One Workshops

Break Out Sessions #1

1. Psychological and Social Needs of Drug Endangered Children: Kiti Freier, Ph.D. NADEC
This session will include a discussion on the psychological and social risks and effects of growing up in a home with substance abuse. It will offer an ecological understanding of neurodevelopmental consequences. Intervention strategies will also be included.
2. Prevention of Prescription Drug Abuse: Augusto Diana, Ph.D.
3. The Theory and Practice of Community Based Substance Abuse Treatment: Nicolas Taylor, Ph.D.
The concept of community based treatment originated in the drug court models which have enjoyed very favorable outcomes even with cases of entrenched and long term addiction. This lively presentation focuses on the theoretical underpinnings of substance abuse treatment involving many facets of the community. Practical tools and methods for implementation will also be discussed.
4. Gangs in Wyoming: Cheyenne Police Dept. C.A.G.E. Team (Law Enforcement Only)
5. Drug Court Training—On the Horizon: Specialty courts and the ABA Criminal Justice Standards Project: Matt Redle, Attorney. The Drug Court movement has spawned mental health courts, domestic violence courts and a host of other specialty courts employing techniques originally developed for dependent individuals in the criminal justice system. The ABA is now on the verge of developing recommended standards for such specialty courts. This presentation will explain the ABA standards process, its influence and what one might expect as a final product.

Break Out Sessions #2

1. Long Term Risks of Abuse & Effecting Resiliency; What Can You Do?: Kiti Freier, Ph.D. - NADEC
This session will include information and data related to long-term consequences of childhood abuse but will focus on the importance of resiliency. It will address the need for providers/communities to promote resiliency in order to attain behavioral and life trajectory change for Drug Endangered Children.
2. Prevention of Prescription Drug Abuse: Augusto Diana, Ph.D.
3. The Theory and Practice of Community Based Substance Abuse Treatment: Nicolas Taylor, Ph.D.
The concept of community based treatment originated in the drug court models which have enjoyed very favorable outcomes even with cases of entrenched and long term addiction. This lively presentation focuses on the theoretical underpinnings of substance abuse treatment involving many facets of the community. Practical tools and methods for implementation will also be discussed.
4. Drug Court Training—Fetal Alcohol Syndrome: Margarete (Maggie) Loghry
This workshop will provide an intensive overview of the history of Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD) and where we are today with the assessment, treatment and outcomes for individuals with an alcohol exposure in uterus. Participants will learn what questions to ask, how to make referral's, how to identify a need to ask the questions and appropriate interaction and advocacy. This workshop will dispel old school thinking that "a little glass of wine won't hurt you", and will provide fact based proof that there is "No safe amount, No safe time, and No safe kind" of alcohol use during pregnancy
5. Drug Recognition Experts: Laramie PD, Lt. Jonlee Anderle (Law Enforcement Only)
Drug-impaired driving poses a threat to public safety and tragedies often are the result when people take drugs and drive. It is well known that drugs, even those prescribed by a physician, can impair perception, judgment, motor skills, and memory. Fortunately, trained Drug Recognition Experts can help to identify drugged drivers, hold them accountable, and get them off the road. This session will explain the training a Peace Officer must complete to become a Drug Recognition Expert and will provide some insight into the problem of drug-impaired driving in Wyoming.

Day Two Workshops

Two-Part Presentation by Cardwell Nuckols, Ph.D.

1. POST- TRAUMATIC STRESS DISORDER and TRAUMATIC BRAIN INJURY IN THE RETURN-ING VETERAN POPULATION

Building on our understanding of PTSD and what is known about the effects of percussion and other forms of head injury, this skills training presentation will give the participant understanding and “state of the art” approaches to helping those returning from war. There are multiple forms of injury that must be addressed. Psychological and physical injury is somewhat understood but the clinician needs an understanding of “moral” injury to be helpful with this population.

2. MANAGING AXIS II, CLUSTER B PERSONALITY DISORDERS: BORDERLINE, ANTISOCIAL AND NARCISSISTIC PERSONALITY DISORDERS

The dramatic and erratic Cluster B Personality Disorders (Narcissistic, Borderline and Antisocial) are among the most difficult to treat clinical presentations. Based on over 30 years of clinical experience with this population, this presentation will give the participant clinical protocols helpful in treating (managing) these clients. This advanced skills development training presents “hands on” technique and the neurobiological research that supports the approach.
